About Me

I am a data-driven consultant with four years of experience as a business analyst in the banking sector, eager to turn strategic analysis and insights into successful projects. In my previous role, I effectively managed a module in an end-to-end wealth banking core migration project, becoming the only team with 100% delivery with the fewest tickets by the expected deadline. I had also stepped up as a project management officer, which led the team to clean up more than 100 to 4 tickets in 2 months. Additionally, I implemented a new resource workload tracking system, resulting in 100% chargeability forecast accuracy. My strong problem-solving abilities combined with data analytic skills (Python, SQL, Tableau) and effective stakeholder coordination, prepare me to deliver substantial impact in business analysis. Having delivered measurable results, I am well-equipped to contribute valuable insights to strategic initiatives and enhance overall organizational success in business analytics team.
